

WISHING FOR A FUN, INTERACTIVE WAY TO BREAK BREAD TOGETHER?

JOIN FELLOW CONGREGANTS IN AN ONLINE COOKING CLASS, TUESDAY, APRIL 13TH

4:30 PM- 6:00 PM

Join B'nai Sholom Reform Congregation for another cooking class celebrating Jewish heritage. Leading up to Shavuot, we will embrace the traditions of feasting on dairy and wheat by making bourekas, the flaky pockets of dough wrapped around a slightly sweet cheese filling. Also known as sambousek in some global Jewish communities, we will be guided by local food journalist Deanna Fox. Substitutions for gluten-free and vegan diets will be provided in recipes.

Deanna Fox is a freelance food and agriculture journalist who travels the globe in search of the story, meaning and purpose of food. She focuses specifically on food history, the business of agriculture, profiles, trends reporting, home cooking and the socio-political implications of food. She was also a cooking instructor and owned Albany Cooking School for many years. More can be found at www.foxonfood.com

Facebook

Instagram

Twitter

Cost: $18 per screen (minimum of 17 screens required to offer session)

Register by April 5th

NAME _____

e-mail address _____

Remit $18 registration fee, by 4/5/2021: (made out to B'nai Sholom Reform Congregation – memo note: Cooking)

BSRC

420 Whitehall Road

Albany, NY 12208